Western Chances celebrates three years with a new initiative

Western Chances will launch the Western Chances Business Supporter Network, their newest initiative to support young people in the Western Suburbs, at their third anniversary celebrations on Wednesday 3rd May.

Scholarship recipients and supporters will gather at the Footscray Community Arts Centre for a showcase of the 'best in the west' and businesses who are interested in the Western Suburbs community will be encouraged to get involved in the new Supporter Network program.

The Western Chances Business Supporter Network supports the involvement of individuals and organisations in the Western Suburbs committed to making a difference to the lives of young people.

Terry Bracks, Founding Chair of Western Chances said this program is a great way for businesses to not only network with each other but also get involved with the local community.

"The Western Chances Business Supporter Network is a great way for businesses, who have always wanted to participate, to now put up their hand and get involved in our expanding network," Mrs Bracks said.

"The Network is about getting other like-minded businesses together to expand both their business goals and our vision for the young people in the community.

"It's about the community helping the community through the power of business networking," she said.

This year Western Chances celebrates its third year of operation and has so far awarded over 500 scholarships for academic, social and cultural activities to young people in the Western Suburbs.
